Rock & Roll Hall of Fame Adds Harry Styles Suit to Right Here, Right Now Exhibit

Rock Hall open daily from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. EST; advance tickets required at rockhall.com

CLEVELAND, OH (September 22, 2020) – The Rock & Roll Hall of Fame has a new addition to its collection. Today, the Rock Hall added a custom Gucci suit worn by Harry Styles to its Right Here, Right Now exhibit, which explores rock’s most recent chart-topping artists and their musical influences.

Styles wore the suit when he inducted his friend Stevie Nicks into the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame as a solo artist in 2019. The pair performed Nicks’ hit “Stop Draggin’ My Heart Around,” which was originally a duet with Inductee Tom Petty.

In Styles’ induction speech he called Stevie “the magical gypsy godmother who occupies the in-between. It’s a space that can only be hers. She’s a lot like a rock & roll Nina Simone, finding the notes only she can. And by being so unapologetically herself, she gives others permission to do the same, and that is true Stevie.”

To watch Styles’ performance and speech, or learn more about Inductee Stevie Nicks, visit rockhall.com/inductees/stevie-nicks. You can also relive great moments from the 2019 Induction Ceremony on the Rock Hall’s YouTube channel.

In addition to Nicks, Styles cites Hall of Fame Inductees Van Morrison, David Bowie, Joni Mitchell, Fleetwood Mac and Elvis Presley among his musical influences.

Celebrating its 25th anniversary this year, the Rock Hall continues to add new artifacts open new exhibits, including its 2020 Inductee Exhibit and It’s Been Said All Along: Voices of Rage, Hope and Empowerment, both with extended digital experiences at rockhall.com.

The Rock Hall is open daily from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. EST with advance tickets required at rockhall.com.
